European Transfer of Innovation

The original project was developed by BFI OOE in Austria for the European Capital of Culture Linz09.

12 female immigrants from Linz led tours through the inner city and offered an insider's view of their everyday life to locals and tourists. Previously the migrant women attended a resource- and process orientated empowerment training program. Because of its great success the project was honored with the Austrian State Prize for Adult Education in the category "Innovation" in 2009.

Culture Pilots tackles the difficult task of many well qualified immigrants and inhabitants with different cultural backgrounds to find appropriate jobs according to their qualification. At the same time it addresses the need for intercultural dialogue to improve social understanding and promote an awareness of the importance of linguistic and cultural diversity in Europe.

The aim is to transfer and implement the Culture Pilots curriculum and city tours in other European countries developing new skills and jobs by encouraging the cooperation between vocational education, cultural tourism and the working world.

Target groups

- Trainers and Coaches for empowerment work in intercultural contexts
- Pre-qualified immigrants and / or inhabitants with different cultural backgrounds
- Locals and tourists participating in the city tours

Activities to achieve the aim

- Adaptation of the Culture Pilots curriculum to the country specific situation and translation into four languages
- Development and implementation of a train the trainer program for resource- and process-orientated empowerment work in intercultural settings
- Implementation of Culture Pilots training program
- Culture Pilots city tours in France, Portugal and Italy
- Dissemination activities, ie www.culturepilots.eu
